overview

An industry leader in construction management has overseen complex projects for a major metro transportation agency since 2014, managing all aspects of construction engineering, resident engineering, and safety oversight. Given the scale — spanning multiple miles and incorporating varied infrastructure — the client needed a specialized partner to help meet its high safety standards amid challenging project demands. ISS’s collaborative approach — not a “gotcha” approach — gave the client and their project teams the safety representation that fit their workforce, organization and overall strategy.

Vice President / Sr. Project Manager,

What do they say?

"The professionals at ISS don't just 'check boxes'—they engage directly with our contractors, bringing a collaborative, solution-driven approach to every safety conversation."

"It's rare to find a partner that merges premium safety consulting with hands-on construction experience; ISS strikes that perfect balance."

"One of the things that makes ISS unique is their commitment to addressing issues before they become problems, from hazard identification to ensuring every team member is properly trained and protected."

"ISS brings in-depth industry knowledge that doesn't just meet regulatory standards—it makes our teams feel supported and safer out in the field."

"For us, ISS has been more than a consultant; they're an integral part of our project success story, continuously going above and beyond to support our safety goals."

challenges

According to ISS’s key contact, “This billion-dollar construction project demands hands-on leadership and a collaborative safety approach that contractors and field teams can trust. With so many unique work environments, from drilled shafts, bridges, to multi-story structures, our team needed additional support to ensure real-time hazard assessment and proactive safety practices.”

The client reached out to Intuitive Safety Solutions (ISS) to fulfill this need, looking for professionals with deep expertise and an understanding of contractor-driven environments.

Solutions provided by ISS...

» Intuitive Safety Solutions stepped in to provide specialized safety support tailored to the construction environment and the client’s rigorous EHS standards. They did it with people who are used to working with general contractors, which is invaluable experience to leverage.

Results and Impact

Through ISS’s tailored approach, the project saw increased safety performance and awareness across their contractors, reinforcing a culture of safety that aligns with organizational values and project standards. The collaboration underscored ISS’s role as a trusted safety partner, essential for ongoing infrastructure work.
